

WHISKEY OR UISGE BEATHA

Written records about whiskey's origins are scarce. Most of the history was passed down by word of mouth, so it is difficult to substantiate exactly when and where distilling started in the world.

The first records of distilling were discovered in Egypt around 3000 BC. In the ninth century B.C. there was a liquor called "arak", which was distilled from molasses, cane sugar, or fruit.

The technique of distilling was brought to Ireland in the year 432 by a group of Irish missionaries led by St. Patrick. They adapted the method to their own needs, and the result was uisge beatha, the "water of life" in Gaelic.

The debate as to who "invented" whiskey rages on today. While Ireland's claims may be disputed, you can't dispute the fact that the first official license was granted to the Old Bushmill's distillery in County Antrim in Northern Ireland in 1608.

The Scots remind us that in 1494 there is the first reference to Scottish whiskey in the Royal Exchequer Rolls, "eight bolls of malt, wherewith to make aqua vita," which was granted to Friar John Corr.

However, whoever started whiskey, we have a legacy that has grown around the world, and we have some of the finest expressions of the art of whiskey making right here in the Bascule Whiskey Bar.

Whiskey is made from various grains in the different whiskey-making countries, some favouring combinations of malted barley, corn, or rye. All whiskies are made with grain, water, and yeast and then distilled before being matured in oak barrels or casks and finally being bottled for consumption.

The age of whiskey is determined by the number of years it spends in the cask. The spirit does not age any further once it has been bottled. The whiskey will always carry the age of the youngest spirit in the blend.

There are no rules on how to enjoy whiskey. Some may enjoy it on the rocks, others just with water, but most experts will recommend initially trying it with a "wee drop" of still water. It will help to open and develop the flavour of the whiskey in your mouth.

We are often asked which is the best whiskey. This depends on individual preferences and palates. We have a wide range of whiskey styles and ages, and we believe that you will find at least one, if not many, that will suit your palate. Our whiskey sommeliers are here to assist and guide you along the way.

DIFFERENT STYLES OF WHISKEY

SINGLE MALT

Single malt is distilled at an individual distillery and produced only from malted barley. Single malts may include whiskey from several years' production, as long as it is from the same distillery. The age shown on the bottle reflects the length of time the youngest whiskey included in the bottling has matured in an oak cask.

BLENDED MALT

Vatted, or Blended malts, are produced by combining various malt whiskeys from several distilleries. Vatted or Blended malts often reflect the distilleries from a particular region, such as Johnnie Walker 15 years (Green Label) and these are labeled Pure malt. They therefore cannot be described as Single malt.

GRAIN WHISKEY

Grain whiskey is produced using continuous distillation process. Malted and unmalted cereals, which are cooked under steam pressure, are used and the resulting spirit is of a higher strength and therefore matures faster than a malt whiskey.

BLENDED WHISKEY

Blended whiskey is created from both Single malts and Grain whiskey. Blended whiskeys are the perfect introduction to drinking whiskey.

DELUXE BLEND

Deluxe blends contain a higher percentage of malt whiskeys and often show an age on the label. As with Single malts, this age reflects the youngest whiskey in the blend.

CASK STRENGTH

Whiskey sold at the strength taken from the cask, normally contains between 57% - 60% alcohol per volume.

SINGLE CASK

Single cask is a whiskey from one cask or barrel. At Bascule Bar you are privileged to try some of the rarest Single malts from our private collection, which are usually bought from private collectors or purchased at auctions. They are rare not only because of their age and refinement, but also because some of the distilleries no longer operate. Some of these include Cask strengths and others may have spent a few decades in a cask.

For further information do not hesitate to ask any one of us in Bascule. Slangeva!
